Headline:
Showery days, before wet and windy weather arrives Monday.

Today:
Sunny spells and the occasional isolated shower to start. Into the afternoon showers develop more widely as further cloud moves in, showers possibly turning heavy with hail and wintry over high ground. Feeling cold, despite gentle northeasterly winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Clouds break up into the evening, and showers die out giving a dry and chilly night with frosts and fog patches. Towards the morning the occasional shower may develop again. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Saturday:
Patchy cloud, sunny spells and scattered showers through the day. These showers turning heavy at times. Turning dry and frosty again into the night. Feeling cold throughout, despite light winds. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunshine and showers on Sunday. Heavy rain then arrives from the west Monday afternoon, bringing strong winds and coastal gales. Sunshine and showers return Tuesday, and remaining windy. Cold throughout.
